

WHY RESILITE WRESTLING MATS ?

CONCERNS	RESILITE	Single Sided Competitor's mat
Safety	RSP625 (1.25") foam has the best HIC impact readings (Between 325-475)! A HIC impact reading of 1000 or above is the established point where the potential for a fatal head injury to occur has a probability of 98%. Resilite's (1.25") foam readings are well below that point (Between 325-475). HIC readings demonstrated by independent laboratory and field testing.	Competitor's 1.25" foam has HIC readings that range from 1100 to 2000+ Those ratings are well above the point where the potential for fatal head injury has a high probability of occurring. A HIC reading of 1000 is the established point where the potential for a fatal head injury can occur.
Durability &amp; Longevity	RESILITE MATS LAST LONGER THAN ANY OTHER MAT! With the ability to recondition a Resilite mat you can get upwards of 20-30 years of use. To maximize mat life, mat must be properly cared for and reconditioned when needed.	Competitor's mats cannot be reconditioned. If they are cut or damaged, they cannot be fixed. All you can do to repair this mat is put mat tape over any cuts.
Usage &amp; Functionality	Resilite Mats can be used on BOTH SIDES! Does it make common sense that getting a mat with 2 sides of usage is much better than a mat with only 1 side of usage? YES!	Competitor's single sided mats are only 1 sided. Only one side of use.
Maintenance &amp; Handling	Resilite mats can be easily repaired if cut or gouged. A little caulking and a couple coats of touch-up paint and the mat is like new. For less than $25 worth of paint and about an hour of time, a moderately damaged mat can look like new and be wrestled on as if nothing had happened.  Resilite mats can be cut into 3, 4, 5 or 6 sections for easier handling and transportation. Resilite's new AMC foams are 20% -30 % lighter than other 2-sided vinyl-coated mats.	If competitor's mats are cut or gouged, all you can do is put pieces of tape over damaged areas. Tape gets filthy and curls up; everyone gets stuck on it- Not fun at all. If these mats get damaged 4 or 5 years down the road, you are stuck with the damage! Yes, these mats are easier to handle cut into 7 pieces and are lighter weight. However, what if you don't want 7 pieces? These mats typically only come in 7- 5' sections and can't be laminated into 6' or 7' sections. Because you have 7 pieces, you require more than double the amount of tape and more than double the amount of taping time and expense.
Health Cleanliness &amp; Sanitization	Resilite mats can be totally sanitized on both sides and edges easily. The entire mat is coated and sealed- NO FOAM EXPOSED.  The only mat on the market with built-in Microban Antimicrobial product protection to help prevent the growth of harmful, odor causing bacteria, mold and mildew. Available on new and reconditioned mats. ENTIRE mat can be coated with Microban. Microban is not a disinfectant, but an antimicrobial inhibitor.	Competitor's mats can only be effectively cleaned on the top side. The edges and underside are not coated and sealed. Edges and underside are EXPOSED FOAM and can harbor bacteria growth and can not be effectively sanitized. With millions of little openings and crevices, do you think anyone has ever tried to clean the raw foam of a this competitor's mat? Top surface and only top surface can be treated with antimicrobial treatments.
Price	In considering all the above areas (safety, functionality, durability etc.) does it make sense to go with a Resilite mat?  The benefits and features of a Resilite wrestling mat are in most cases worth the investment.	Competitor's mats may be offered at a lower initial investment. Going with this type of mat may give you a lighter mat with some initial savings out of the gate.  In considering all the above benefits and features of a Resilite mat compared to the competitor's mat, what makes more sense on the entire life of the investment? We believe Resilite makes most sense.
